CRAG Meeting of 18 April 1958

I have reviewed the notes of the CRAG meeting of 18 April. Outside of a few small editorial suggestions, which I have penciled in, there is only one major question in my mind. This is whether or not it would be possible to split the responsibility for biographic coverage of economic personalities with CIA taking over those for the Bloc and State for those on the Free World. Such a decision would be in line with the primary division of production responsibilities between ourselves and State.
